Hi, we are a small team trying to extract data from engineering drawings using Python (These diagrams are fairly dense with lines with sparse information). We have encountered an error where the HTTP error code we get for our request is 400 when sending the whole raw image but breaking the image into smaller chunks seems to work.